GEOGRAPHY OF NOVAPORT AIRPORTS

- Moscow
- Stavropol
- Mineralnye Vody
- Vladikavkaz
- Astrakhan
- Volgograd
- Tomsk
- Novosibirsk
- Kemerovo
- Barnaul
- Tyumen
- Perm
- Chelyabinsk
- Murmansk
- Kaliningrad
- Murmansk
- Ulan-Ude
- Chita
- Kaliningrad
Novaport is a rapidly growing chain of Russian regional airports. As of December 2018 it holds or operates a major equity stake in 14 regional airports in Novosibirsk, Chelyabinsk, Volgograd, Tomsk, Astrakhan, Chita, Tyumen, Perm, Murmansk, Kemerovo, Kaliningrad, Mineralnye Vody, Ulan-Ude, Vladikavkaz and possesses minority interest (48-49%) in Barnaul and Stavropol airports.

Novaport is responsible for strategic management of the airport network, through implementation of comprehensive development programs, which have substantially raised the level of the airport infrastructure.

The Holding’s strategic goals are improvement of the airports’ attractiveness to passengers and airline companies, and enhancement of operating and financial efficiency.

Company shareholders:
50%: AEON Corporation
50%: Meridian Capital Limited